

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE JUNIOR COLLEGE
MARTIN, TENNESSEE TUESDAY MAY 11, 1915

If a country is a white better book, people a better nation, or have a better message, the world will beat a path to its door. Else, close.

All the committees are hard at work on plans, as can easily be seen by the fact that the orchestra committee has arranged to have

That orchestra of renown
To come down,
All the way from Memphis town,
And give out with music that
Will banish every frown

The orchestra of Clarence Allen's

Paul Meek, Executive Officer of The University of Tennessee Junior College, will deliver the class address for Cottage Grove High School, Paris, May 19.

On May 20 he will give an address at Huntingdon High School.

Mr. Meek delivered the class address for the Mauney City High School Friday, May 7. Twenty-five students from Crockett County are attending the Junior College this year.

On Wednesday evening, May 5, Mr. Meek gave the address for the graduating class at Cloverdale High School in Okeechobee County. There are 64 students attending the Junior College this year from Okeechobee County.

Other commencement addresses given by Mr. Meek recently include those given at Dearyville High School, April 20; Rutherford High School, April 24; and Bradford High School, April 25. The number of Bradford High School graduates is 100 each year. It is a privilege to be the first speaker at the history of the school program. Mr. Meek the 1990s, the number of people in the Middle East and North Africa region who are employed in the ITA have increased by 100 per cent. AOE is a member of World Trade Organisation, with 1000 employees, and 10000 external consultants, and is now a leading information provider to the business community in the Middle East.

The first thing you notice when you walk into the College is the "Welcome to the College" sign. Mr. Meekins, the principal, follows you to the front of the building. How exciting to go to a new school! There were a lot of new faces of Travel Fundations. In the past two years, the faculty found that the College has been changed. That's correct, with the new school, had to be reorganized. Now, with the new rules, completing the two-year of training the Junior College will be open to regular non-veteran students in whatever number they may desire to come.

Charles Byrnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eld Byrnes, will go to Memphis on May 8 to participate in the Mid-South Typing Contest according to an announcement made by Jasper F. Grover, head of the Department of Business Administration at The University of Tennessee, Junior College.

Mr. Ravens will be accompanied by Mr. Grover and Miss Joyce Clayton. Miss Clayton will not participate in the competition but will visit the contest as a student majoring in business education.

"This contest should be of much interest," said Mr. Grover in making the announcement, "for contestants will enter from as far south as Florida and as far west as California."

"Swing yo' padnuh!" "Can you swim?" "Let's play badminton!" Where could all these very different phrases be heard? Why, at the SCA party on the night of April 3 at the gym, of course.

That's right! There was square dancing, badminton, shuffleboard, rock, ping-pong, swimming, and refreshments (cookies in the cookie machine) to be had at this very different party—different from those formals, that is. We all like formals but for a good old-fashioned, "let-yourself-go" relaxing party we can depend on the Student Christian Association.

All our boys and little ole Esther Williams got to show off their swimming prowesses that they've been learning in Phys Ed. Everybody seemed to like the idea of having the pool open and getting to swim at night!

Mr. Benson and Billy Scroggs did a wonderful job of planning the program for the evening because it was apparent from the bright beaming faces that everyone was having a very very good time. This included the children, too. Mrs. Shannon, Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Smith, Mr. Alexander and Mr. Cide, who all seemed to hate to leave when 11 o'clock rolled around.

SCA were for some parts of these parties where everybody can have an enjoyable evening of all-round good cheer too.

The Student Christian Association followed up their participation in the parade with a formal dinner and a social hour, and then a formal luncheon, April 15, at the 2600 Highlands Hotel. Speakers were invited from the SCA chapters at New York, New York, New Haven, Connecticut, and Hartford, Connecticut. The program was most interesting and profitable to the students, and the speakers were very effective.

 I happened to be out early in the morning, the day being fine and breezy. I went to the State Prison to get a couple of sheepskins for my dog. The warden told me that he had a couple more coming in with the rest of the skins. I went to the kitchen and looked over with all the fixings, and the chips and condiments. Much fun was had in singing songs and telling tall tales, and it was time to go back. At first I looked as if one of the trucks wasn't going to start, but to the sorrow of many it did, and we arrived back at Freeman Hall in time to hear eleven o'clock strike.

CO. EDITOR: A number of students described the book as "discredited" or "outdated" and, with them, the best reason for its rejection for the 1990 edition was that it was "outdated." I am glad that you have taken the time to look at the book and that you have found it to be useful for your purposes in the book. I am glad that you have brought it to the attention of the publisher as well as presenting a few creative bookcases.

Jack Fain and Robert H. Gibson have been elected by the Sophomore Class to serve as President and Vice-president this quarter. Jack is a pre-law student from

Mr. W. H. Brown, acting for the Department of Education, announced that he had accepted the position of Assistant Professor of English at Memphis State College, Memphis, Tenn. for a year, September 1, 1948.

The royal beaches took part in the Friday morning festival parade of a very attractive float which was built by the Ag boys. This was the first time that the students have completely designed and built their own float!

The float, which was designed by Roy Gayden, was constructed by a large crew of Ag students. G. T. Moore served as chairman of the float committee. The boys worked both night and day for two weeks to complete their float entry. The school will share the expenses of the float with the Ag Club.

The Ag Club is certainly appreciated for its work in sponsoring the Strawberry Festival Regatta from U.T.C.

And the freshmen heard the sophomores'! Everyone will agree that the Saturday of April 21 was quite a day for everyone. The freshmen class under the sponsorship of Miss Cleveland and Miss Koontz and headed by their N. Smith, Mark Fairless, and Betty McNeil really did a splendid job of providing a gala afternoon and evening of fun for everyone.

Beginning in December, we collected paired samples between the pre- and post-sedimentation. The first sample completely covered the sediments. Of course, they collected sediments were the full and not the low then that the sediments were dedicated to the sediment.

At 7:30 there was a six-story fire in the campus without cause, and it took well over 20 minutes to get under control, but it extended the day. It started by a man carrying a fire with a torch, placed it in a trash can, and it started to burn. The fire started to burn, and it took a long time to get it under control. The fire was very large, and it took a long time to get it under control. The fire was very large, and it took a long time to get it under control.

James Glasgow, president of the class, installed the officers for 1948-49. Donald March from McIntosh, Terry is the new president. Ralph Thornton, Browns' president, and Jo Burnett, Dyer, Tarkenton, were elected as vice-presidents and the rotary-treasurer.

Presentation of awards was made by Mr. Paul Meek, executive officer of The All Student Club award for the outstanding sophomore went to Jessie Eugenia Sparks, Linden T. Jr. Jessie received the Volunteer symbol as the result of an election held by the Sophomore class.

The outstanding students in the Forum Club are Russell Regen McCashe, Trenton, Tenn., and Carolyn Louise Davis, Martin, Tenn.

The first case, labeled A, like the second, B, was a 10-year-old female, 25.5 kg, with the same clinical picture. Her Hb was 17.5 g/dl, Hct 47%, and the leukocyte count 12,000/mm³. The blood smear was similar to the one in case B, but the leukocytes were less numerous. The patient was treated with 100 mg of prednisone daily for 10 days, and the leukocyte count fell to 10,000/mm³. The patient was discharged on 50 mg of prednisone daily.

At the same time, the state's attorney general, Robert E. Cooper, said that the state would not sue the city. He said that the state would sue only if the city failed to pay the $100,000 fine.

Shelton Is New Ag Instructor

The Agriculture Department's newest addition, Mr. Morris Shelton, has a right to feel at home here at U.T.J.C. He attended school here from 1941 to '43. "Although many expansions and changes have been made, the school is still very familiar to me," he said.

Mr. Shelton's education was interrupted by the war. He served as an enlisted man on a submarine in the Navy. He saw action in various parts of the South Pacific.

Mr. Shelton's home town is Collinwood, Tenn. "Very few people know anything about Collinwood, but it is in Wayne County," he explained. He graduated from High School at Collinwood.

Having returned to school at Knoxville in the fall of '47, Mr. Shelton received his degree in animal husbandry at the close of the winter quarter. There was very little time for vacation before taking up his duties here at the beginning of the spring quarter.

Girls, here is your chance. Mr. Shelton is not married. If you plan to take any of his courses, you must choose either animal husbandry or dairying.

POETRY

(With Apologies to Shakespeare)
To study, or not to study; that is the question
Whether 'tis smarter in the mind to suffer

The slings and arrows of outrageous exams.

Or to take up books against a lot of troubles,

And by studying end them? To cram; to sleep

No more; and by a sleep to say we end

The heartache and the thousand natural shocks

The students are heirs to, 'tis a consumption

Devoutly to be wished. To study, to cram:

To cram: perchance to pass: Ay there's the rub:

For in that desperate cramming where knowledge may come

When we have shuffled off this stupid coil

Must give us pause there's the respect

That make calamity of so little study;

For who would bear the whips and scorns of exams,

The professor's worn, the smart man's contumely

The pangs of despised F's the grades delay,

The insolence of office and the spurs

That patient review of the unworthy takes,

When he himself might his credits make.

With a little study? Who would those exams bear!

To groan and sweat under a weary teacher,

But that the dread of something after exams,

The undiscovered failure from whose knots

No student recovers, puzzles the brain

And make us rather pass those tests we have Thought fly to others that we know not of?

Thus knowledge does make cowards of us all;

And thus the native hue of resolution

Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,

And morons of great path and moment

With this regard their studies turn away,

And lose the name of student.

Ag Dinner-Dance Quite All "Reet"

Dis is Spring.
De boids are on de wing.
How absoid!
De wings are on de boid.

As you can see, spring is here, and "In the spring a young man's fancy . . ."

Well, anyway, the "Ag" Club evidently had something on their minds besides agriculture when they planned that wonderful semi-formal dinner-dance they gave Friday night, April 9, at the Strata Club.

This dinner-dance was rather unique and unusual in more ways than one. "Ferinstance," the speeches given by William Brown, M.C. and president of the club, Mr. McMahan, Mr. Meek, and Mr. Detchon were all short. Short speeches at a dinner!!! Must have been spring fever!

Another unusual feature was the fact that the girls were not jealously looking around to see "if Jane got orchids while I only got gardenias." Strange as it seems, the girls all had corsages exactly alike (thanks to Mr. Smith's suggestion and Mr. McMahan's generosity with the greenhouse flowers) and they were beautiful, corsages, that is. The girls, too.

Looked quite all "reet" When they went to the Strata to eat.

And to swing and sway To the music of the hand that knows how to play.

To the music of the band of Billy Crossway!

And last, but not least—guess what?? Mr. Meek gave the girls permission to stay out 'til 11:45 on a Friday night!!! When this happened, everyone knew that Spring had really arrived and that our executive officer also seemed to

TRAILER CAMP NEWS

By Myrtle H. Pate

Spring has been welcomed by the members of the camp with much pleasure. Spring cleaning, of course, is not so pleasant; but the beautiful weather overshadows this small factor.

We have within our camp some new members:

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Vowell from Fulton, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rose, also from Fulton, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Suddorth from Haiti, Mo. The Suddorths have been in Martin since the first of the Winter Quarter living at 212 Poplar Street. They are both enrolled in school.

We are very sorry that Mrs. Jordon is ill and at home. We hope that she will soon be well enough have contracted that strange, contagious malady which everyone now seems to have—Spring Fever!

At 11:45 the boys escorted their girl friends home after another "perfect" party to add to their memories of the pleasures of college life.

to be back with us soon.

Mrs. Thurmond and daughter spent last week at home in Paducah.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Taylor and son, Robert, Jr., spent the weekend in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Lofton entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hollingsworth at their home in Lexington last weekend.

School is fast drawing to a close. We are going to be glad, but yet we will be sorry, for several of our members will be leaving and we will be sorry to see them go.

I LOVE BEAUTY

I love the beauty some have captured in song,

Seen in Him who rights our wrong,

That is given to the earth,

Which young things have at birth,

Of the stillness of the night,

Of the rectitude of right,

Of the purity of the rose,

Of the way by which it grows,

Of the winter with its snow,

Of the night-frost with its glow,

I see spread across the skies,

That is glowing in your eyes,

Of the song-birds in the trees,

I love the beauty of all of these.

Casualty Yours

My heart is always breaking;
My life has been made bare
By many dark-complexioned men
And six or seven fair.

My heart is always breaking;
The world seems lone and drear;
I long to end it all, about
A dozen times a year.

I meet a man and rue it
And plan to end my days;
I somehow never do it.
(Procrastination pays.)

My heart is always breaking;
It doesn't mean a thing.
So do not be too proud to know
You broke my heart this spring.

Don't think it's to your fatal
Fascination this is due;
It's only by the merest chance
It happened to be you!

Our National Guard and National Defense

ONE OF THE most effective means of interesting recruits, as many National Guard units have found, is the display of equipment. For the 105th Engineer Combat Battalion, Tennessee National Guard, this means showing—among other things—some of the D-7 caterpillar tractors turned over to the unit from U. S. Army surplus. Here, Guardsmen of the 105th, located in Martin, Tenn., get ready to roll the big cats off a flatcar.

Many people lack information about our National Guard; therefore I will give you the knowledge to which I have access. Our National Guard is the War Department's present plan for national defense. The National Guard has been assigned an enormous job and is the most important task ever assigned to the National Guard in peacetime. It is an integral part of the Army of the United States and stands along with the Regular Army and the Reserve Corps in importance.

Our National Guard has a proposed peacetime strength of 682,000 officers and enlisted men, which surpasses any previous contemplation. It is organized in several states, the District of Columbia, and the Territories. Under the supervision of the Regular Army, it is trained to be capable of immediate expansion to war strength in time of emergency. Other duties of the National Guard include: aid to people in times of flood, fires, or major disasters, and is available to the Governor in time of state disorder.

Our immediate effect which is felt by us is the 105th Engineer Combat Battalion which is located in Martin. Under the capable command of Lt. Col. James Corbett, the 105th has grown to a strength of 425 enlisted men and 22 officers. The 105th was the first completely activated battalion in the state. It is composed of Company A, Medical Detachment, Headquarters and Headquarters Service Company, located in Martin; Company B in Union City; Company C in Paris, and the 2995th Engineer Trdg. Br. Co in Milan.

Company A and Headquarters and Headquarters Service Company have brought to Martin more than just an organization for training men for self-defense; it has brought a considerable amount of money to the city; it has helped college students. The National Guard conducts its meetings one night a week (2 hours) in the college gym. One is paid a full day's pay $2.50 for a private to $5.50 for a first sergeant for these two hours per week. This is based on Regular Army pay.

The United States is not "sticking its neck out." We do not want war, but neither did we want war in December 1941; however, we were forced into one of the most terrifying wars ever recorded. We do not want to be caught "napping" again because we saw its results during this last unforgettable war. Life was hurried and the lack of time was one of our greatest disadvantages. Inquire at the National Guard headquarters at the Junior College gymnasium for information about enlistments. Remember the National Guard is our safeguard for tomorrow's uncertainty join it and we will be better able to meet the future with a steady hand and a ready mind!

THE MEN'S DORMITORY

By Lawrence Rogers

Upon arrival at the University of Tennessee Junior College, I was assigned to room 46 upstairs in the east wing of the men's dormitory. Being just two weeks out of the Army, I was more than a little disappointed at the marked resemblance between the dormitory and an army barracks. I felt exactly as I had on my first day in service when Mrs. Thomas, our matron, issued me two army blankets and gave me a mimeographed form to fill out and sign. I realized happily when she gave me the sheets and pillowcases that this could not be the Infantry. Bed linen is only a vague memory to an unfortunate GI, and it is limited in the Army to the privileged non-coms and commissioned officers.

After the innumerable threats and cursings heaped upon me as a private or yardbird, the friendly atmosphere on the campus was a pleasant relief. A standard regulation seems to be: never pass anyone without a neighborly greeting. They told us the salute replaced the respectful "How do you do" of civilian life, but I regarded it as an ill-conceived discrepancy to be avoided at all costs.

My college life began with inroductions to about 30 fellow students, and I failed to remember the name of a single one. I soon discovered that study took a back seat to pinocle in the lives of collegians. It wasn't long before I was invited to sit in on a game. I didn't know how to spell the game, much less play it, and I immediately entered the rank of a jerk in the other men's opinions. I am seldom asked to play any more.

A new student is always an object of curiosity to the veterans, and I was no exception. Being of the round-eyed and innocent looking species, I was systematically taken in hand and given advice by several of my future friends. This was a new experience to me, for in the Army I was never told how to do anything until I had just proven my stupidity by doing it incorrectly. Weighing all the advice carefully, I accepted the most sound of it, but decided to withhold judgment on some of the more radical suggestions. One by one, each man visited me, dropping invaluable hints, informing me of the local evils available, and asking the usual tactless questions regarding my intentions, present and future.

It wasn't until a rather humorous incident occurred that I realized my efforts toward friendship had not been in vain. After a most pleasant weekend at home, I arrived at school full of that morbid feeling which always precedes Monday mornings. I met Mrs. Thomas in the lobby; and after discussing the possibility of more rain, I climbed the stairs unsuspectingly to my room. The sight that greeted my tired eyes was one of utter destruction. My room had been "stacked" and was in a state of suspended animation. The bed clothes had been removed and stuffed on a shelf. The bed was turned on its side and piled high with my desk, chairs, books, and other paraphernalia. The chest, which usually contains drawers, contained nothing. The drawers were stacked in one corner and draped over with a blanket. Now I knew I had been tried by the jury, and that I had not been found wanting.

The United States Air Force includes all military aviation forces not otherwise specifically assigned. It is organized, trained and equipped primarily for prompt and sustained air offensive and defense operations.
